

The organizers of the Season of our Joy festival site are pleased to be able to include as part of the 'festival experience' the opportunity for those who attend to locate and purchase biblical resources and certain Judaica items in our Resource Room. We know that many who are new to this walk are looking for all the information they can find, and we want to be able to help them in that area. In addition, the resource room is a place for our speakers to interact with their audience, promote their ministry, and offer their books and tapes. The Resource Room is not intended to be a store.

In order to provide the greatest variety to the attendees as well as the most opportunity to the 'vendors' (anyone who has been allocated space in the resource room), we've established the following guidelines:

- Space in the resource room is provided on a first come – first serve basis with preference given as follows:
 - Speakers
 - Responsibility Leaders
 - Those who had a space the previous year
- You must have registered for the festival before requesting a table.
- All items for sale or display, such as books, tapes, clothing, decorations, etc. must be of a Biblical nature (preferably Judaica). Nothing else will be permitted.
- Vendors are not allowed to set up, maintain, or take down their tables on the Sabbath or the Holy Days.
- Vendors must close their table and vacate the room within 5 minutes of the scheduled closing time. No one is allowed to remain in the resource room when it is closed.
- Vendors must take down and remove their items from the resource room by 10:00 PM on the last day of the festival.
- Vendors may not collect money as pre-payment for items they intend to ship after the festival.
- The display and/or sale of any material is subject to the approval of the organizers of the Season of Our Joy festival site.

Note – these are general guidelines. Other rules or guidelines may also apply.
